Las comidas típicas

A plate from every corner of the Spanish-speaking world, with Spain 🇪🇸 and Argentina 🇦🇷 vocabulary

PONCHO SPANISH

¡BUEN PROVECHO!

You can learn a whole continent through its lunches. Twenty-one countries speak Spanish, and not one of them eats the same thing on a Sunday.

This resource takes you round the Spanish-speaking world one dish at a time: Spain, Mexico, Argentina and Uruguay, Peru and the Andes, the Caribbean and Central America, and a last section of puddings and drinks. More than 80 words and expressions, each one in a real sentence.

You don't need to have tried any of it. Read a little at a time, say the names out loud, and see how many of them you already recognise from a menu. At the end there are activities to check what you remember, and all the answers.

How to use it

1. Read the word, then the sentence. Words stick better when you see them in action.
2. Say the dish out loud. Choripán, pupusa, chimichurri: they're fun to say.
3. Find the country on a map. Every dish here has a home.
4. Try the activities without looking back, then check the answers.

La tortilla no es la tortilla

The same word, two completely different dishes. In Spain la tortilla is a thick omelette with potato; in Mexico it is a thin flatbread made of maize that you wrap round your lunch.

la tortilla 🇪🇸 = a potato omelette

Un plato, muchos nombres

Food is where Spanish changes the most from country to country. When you see two options, the first is common in Spain 🇪🇸 and the second in Argentina 🇦🇷.

la patata 🇪🇸 = la papa 🇦🇷

01 · ESPAÑA

FROM THE SPANISH KITCHEN

ESPAÑOL	ENGLISH	EN UNA FRASE
el pan con tomate	bread rubbed with tomato	En Cataluña siempre hay pan con tomate. In Catalonia there is always pan con tomate.
la patata 🇪🇸 la papa 🇦🇷	the potato	¿Me pasas las patatas? Can you pass me the potatoes?
el bocadillo 🇪🇸 el sánguche 🇦🇷	the sandwich	Me llevo un bocadillo al colegio. I take a sandwich to school.
los churros	the churros	Los churros se mojan en el chocolate. You dip churros in the hot chocolate.

¿SABÍAS QUE...?

Paella comes from Valencia, on the east coast, and the original version has no seafood at all: chicken, rabbit, green beans and a flat white bean called garrofó. The word paella is actually the name of the pan, not of the dish.

MÉXICO

MAIZE, CHILLI AND CHOCOLATE

Three things Mexico gave the world: maize, chilli and chocolate.

ESPAÑOL	ENGLISH	EN UNA FRASE
el taco	the taco	Un taco es una tortilla con algo dentro. A taco is a tortilla with something inside.
la tortilla de maíz	the corn tortilla	Aquí la tortilla es de maíz, no de patata. Here the tortilla is made of maize, not potato.
el maíz	the maize, the corn	El maíz está en casi todos los platos. Maize is in almost every dish.
el guacamole	the guacamole	El guacamole lleva aguacate, lima y cilantro. Guacamole has avocado, lime and coriander in it.
el aguacate 🇪🇸 la palta 🇦🇷	the avocado	Un aguacate maduro se abre solo. A ripe avocado opens by itself.
el tamal	the tamal	Los tamales se cocinan envueltos en hoja. Tamales are cooked wrapped in a leaf.

FRASES EN LA MESA

PHRASES FOR ORDERING AND EATING

Short sentences you could really say in a restaurant or at somebody's table. When there are two versions, the second is how you'd say it in Argentina.

¿Qué vas a comer?
What are you going to have?

Yo quiero una empanada, por favor.
I'd like an empanada, please.

¿Qué lleva este plato?
What's in this dish?

Lleva carne, cebolla y huevo.
It has meat, onion and egg in it.

Soy vegetariano. / Soy vegetariana.
I'm vegetarian.

No como carne.
I don't eat meat.

¿Pica mucho?
Is it very spicy?

Pica un poquito.
It's a little bit spicy.

¡Está riquísimo!
It's delicious!

¿Me pasas la sal?
Can you pass me the salt?

La cuenta, por favor.
The bill, please.

¡Buen provecho!
Enjoy your meal!

¿SABÍAS QUE...?

«¡Buen provecho!» is said to anybody who is eating, even strangers at the next table, and in much of Latin America you say it as you leave a restaurant. There is no real English equivalent: 'enjoy your meal' is the closest, and it sounds far more formal.
